OIL TARIFF VOTED DOWN

Standard Oil Company of New York, the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey, and the Royal Dutch Shell Company. Of course, these big companies are not in favor of the tariff, because they are making plenty of money by unloading their cheap Venezuelan and Mexican oil and gasoline in the United States. But what good does that do the workers and the people of this country, except for the few Wall Street barons who own stock in their foreign oil companies? And as if to further defy the rights of American oil workers, the crude is even refined in foreign countries by cheap Indian labor and brought into this country tax free. That is why the 50 percent ad valorem tax is also asked on refined petroleum products.

Don't ever think that the independent oil producers who are fighting for the protective tariff are an unimportant group. The independents include such firms as Richfield, Barnadale, Rio Grande, C. C. M. O. and of course hundreds of smaller companies. In fact, to get an idea of the number of independent companies affected by the oil tariff, it might be easier to name the foreign-holding or so-called "big" companies who apparently wish to keep oil on the free list. They include Standard, Shell, Union, Associated, and Texaco. All the rest are independents.

While the Senate has voted the much-needed protective tariff down, the fight by no means is over. Perhaps the vote was forced too soon. Two weeks before the vote was taken, only three Senators were reported in favor of the tariff, so that in two weeks the independent producers gained 24 votes, as 27 Senators approved the tariff last Friday. If the proponents of the issue had been permitted further time it is probable that the number of converts to the cause would have been increased enough to assure success. With this possibility in mind, the agitation is being continued. Yesterday there was a break in the coalition lines which defeated the oil tariff and the new lineup passed an increased tariff on sugar. Proponents of the oil tariff claim that this new coalition means a like favorable vote on oil when the issue comes up again for action. Write your Senator to keep up the work. Write home to friends in the eastern states and urge them to ask their senators to favor a re-opening of this vital issue to California and the mid-continent fields. Perhaps if we all put our shoulders to the wheel we can secure proper protection for one of the country's major home industries. Let's not allow seven votes in the Senate to thwart the prosperity of America.

Opposition to Harbor Sewer Plant Withdrawn

Opposition to the enlargement of the sewer treatment plant by Wilmington people was withdrawn last week, when the Wilmington Chamber of Commerce passed a resolution endorsing the further development of the treatment plant at Harbor City.

The plant is a unit of the Metropolitan Sewer System and is being enlarged to care for the increased volume of sewage now being carried through the Metropolitan System. The enlargement is an emergency construction to take care of the surplus sewage until such time as the outlet sewer at White Point is completed and the sewage carried out to sea.

Tomkins, president of the local organization, took charge of the business meeting after which the Home Guards, the junior auxiliary of the Home Missionary Society, under the leadership of Mrs. W. H. PUBLIC ASKED TO GET READY FOR CENSUS

Big Job Begins April 1, and Is to Be Completed in Two Weeks

Launching of an intensive educational campaign designed to facilitate the taking of the 1930 census which will be started on a national scale beginning April 1, was announced here today by John C. Austin, president of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce, which organization will direct the campaign in this county.

Recalling the difficulty encountered by enumerators in taking the 1920 census which resulted in what statisticians later declared to be an incomplete count of population, Austin said that every channel possible will be employed in reaching the families and individuals who will contact the census taker on his rounds, in order that they may be fully informed as to the necessity of giving complete information.

While the educational campaign will be carried on in every section of the state, of particular concern here is the plan for reaching residents of Los Angeles county. Austin said. With the generous co-operation of the various newspapers, details of the manner in which the census is taken will be furnished thousands of persons and in addition to this phase of the campaign, a speaker's bureau is being organized to present brief talks before churches, clubs and other organizations, speakers urging co-operation with the federal government. Radio broadcasting of various details of the census will further assist.

Los Angeles county is divided into five federal census districts, each in charge of a supervisor who will direct the work of the enumerators. The county is also divided into 1,600 enumeration districts, each of which is estimated to contain 1,800 persons and thus giving an idea of the immensity of the task faced by the individual enumerator. During the campaign, persons with whom the census taker comes in contact, will be advised beforehand as to the contents of the government questionnaire and the necessity for complete co-operation in answering all questions asked. Description of the credentials carried by each enumerator will also be given in order that they will not be mistaken by housewives for peddlers or obtaining information for sales purposes.

The federal census begins on the morning of April 1, next, and two weeks are allowed for enumerators in each district to submit their complete check of residents in their territory. The full month is allowed to secure the census of manufactures and distribution and the census of agriculture, neither of which, however, concern the persons contacted by the census taker at homes.

M. E. CHOIR BROADCASTS OVER KGEF

The choir had charge of the program presented by the Methodist church over KGEF Tuesday evening from 9:30 until 10. The choir rendered four numbers: Mrs. A. W. Johnson sang, "My Heart is a Haven"; Mr. Jack Williams, tenor sang, "Mother of Mine"; Mrs. R. A. Young and Mr. A. G. Solomon sang a duet, "Yes I Know." Accompaniments were played by Mrs. A. W. Johnson.

Rev. R. A. Young gave a short talk with his topic, "The Mystery of Love." Many congratulations have come from radio fans regarding the program presented by the Torrance church. Some of the letters have come from states in the middle west. The church has as its slogan "The church that lives to serve in the heart of the industrial city of Torrance."
